The Serbian troops already have taken the small town of Novovarsch, five miles from the Serbian frontier. The population, which consists mostly of Servians, greeted the troops with enthusiasm when they marched in.

Sidney, Australia, Oct. 21.—Jack Johnson will not fight in Australia. Hugh McIntosh who had offered Johnson $50,000 for fights with Sam Langford and Sam McVey or Joe Jeannette called today to W. W. Kelly, his representative in Chicago to cancel all negotiations. McIntosh explains that Johnson's part in the alleged abduction had so angered the sporting men and public of Australia that the matches are not longer desirable.

Berlin, Germany, Oct. 21.—Announcement of the death yesterday of Lieut. Hans Gerike, winner of last year's balloon race in the United States and head of the team of German flyers to be entered in the race to be held from Stuttgart next Saturday, created a profound sensation here today. He was buried from his balloon at a height of three and a half miles by the explosion of the gas bulb which is said to have been struck by lightning. His aide, Lieut. Steller was also killed. Gerike and Steller were making a trial flight in the new balloon which they expected to use in the international races. Just above the town of Grossenhain, they met with an electric storm which they tried to avoid by rising above the disturbance. When they were a mile in the air their craft crossed the current of the storm and the explosion followed. The balloon made a terrific spurt upwards and then the balloon burst.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—Secretary Knox and Ransford S. Miller returned after attending funeral of late Emperor.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—Secretary Knox and Ransford S. Miller, chief of the far eastern division of the state department, constituting the special embassy dispatched by the president to Japan to represent the United States at the funeral services of the late Emperor Mutsuhito, returned today to Washington.

While the United States intends to adhere to its policy of non-interference in the internal affairs of Mexico the state department has made it plain to the Madero government that measures to protect Americans in the troubled zone must not be relaxed.

These representations, it is understood, include intimations that the lines of communication from the interior to Vera Cruz and Tampico, the principal ports on the Atlantic side must be kept open for the exit of Americans.

While some students of the question believe the United States might take measures on its account to keep open an avenue of escape for Americans, as it did in China and Nicaragua, officials here do not regard such a development as likely.

Beloit, Wis., Oct. 21.—Gov. Wilson's determination to make no more political speeches unless Col. Roosevelt again takes the stump is not accepted as final by democratic national leaders. The fact that Madison Square Garden has been rented for the night of Oct. 31 is being urged upon the governor as a reason why he should yield to the demands of his managers and speak in New York on that date.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—In accordance with a new policy adopted by Secretary Meyer, the commandants of all the naval stations and navy yards in the United States and of the station at Guantanamo, Cuba, assembled at the navy department in this city today for the purpose of considering methods of administrative improvement. Beloit, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Delegates from widely separated points throughout the country have arrived in Buffalo for the annual meeting of the American Missionary Association. The convention will open tomorrow and continue in session over Wednesday and Thursday. Many noted church workers and missionaries are on the program for addresses.

Constantinople, Oct. 21.—Several Turkish successes on the eastern frontier of Montenegro are reported in dispatches from Saloniki.

London, Eng., Oct. 21.—Within a few days and possibly hours there is expected to begin one of the biggest and bloodiest battles of modern times. The armies of the Balkan allies now have crossed the frontier on all sides into Turkey in Europe. The Turks, as their enemies advance, are giving up their frontier posts and are abandoning small and unimportant towns.

They are falling back slowly to a strongly entrenched position which it is thought they will make desperate efforts to hold against the oncoming Balkan armies. Persistent rumors have been current today that two of the outer forts of Adrianople have fallen into the hands of the Bulgarians.

These rumors, however, have not been confirmed. Meanwhile it is known that the Turks rapidly are reinforcing the garrison and supporting forces at Adrianople and the Bulgarians are rushing additional troops thither to assist in the inevitable struggle for the possession of the Turkish stronghold.

London, Oct. 21.—Six of the fourteen men alleged to have been implicated in an attack on Mrs. Lillian Mullane, the 19 year old bride of Richmond, Va., near Passaic Saturday are in jail here. Five of them have been identified by Mrs. Mullane. Mrs. Mullane, who is being cared for by the women of Annapolis near here today had so far recovered as to expect to be able to testify against the prisoners at their preliminary hearing.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 21.—The university pastors representing the various churches in Madison, have recently organized college departments in the bible schools conducted by them in the city. About 300 students were enrolled on the first Sunday. Upon a day to be designated, the entire student body will be canvassed, and the Y. M. C. A. will invite the men and the Y. W. C. A. each of the women students to enter a course at some church.

SENIORS ARE HOSTS TO FRESHMAN CLASS

Annual Reception at High School Gymnasium Saturday Night Proved Delightful Affair.

The Freshman-Senior reception held by the Seniors Saturday evening for the entertaining of the incoming Freshman proved to be a decided success. All efforts were made by the Seniors to make this banquet one of a high class, and all the Freshman agree that it is the best sort of entertainment that they have ever witnessed. Not until a late hour did the guests leave, and the long procedure with all the fun, together with the refreshments had the approval of everyone.

Friday afternoon, and from then until the time of the banquet, the seniors were busy in the gymnasium, decorating for the grand affair. Junior and Sophomore students were also invited, and they all gave their good word toward the success of the Seniors as hosts. More time was placed on the preparations than on any other known reception.

The minstrels led by Ralph Soultman and followed by Leslie Bailey, Benj. Kuhlow and Harold Mohr proved that much practice was necessary, before they could exhibit such grand southern melody. The different side shows attracted much interest, and Evelyn Kavelage with the nigger-baby show attracted a good deal of interest.

President of the Seniors, Benjamin Kuhlow, opened the affair by welcoming the Freshman in an oratorical manner. His speech was short and then a response was given by Paul Richards, a Freshman, and he gave the higher classmen a good lecture, on how, only four years ago, they were in the same fix, and the Seniors really thought they were taken to task. After the refreshments were served the crowd departed after enjoying a very delightful time.

Given Jail Sentences From Five To Twenty-Five Days—Fine Paid By One of Number.

Business in the municipal court was opened this morning by arraigning five men, old and less frequent offenders, on charges of being intoxicated. All plead guilty, though some of them made reservations and apologies.

High Stockman, not being able to meet the demand of a fine of $15 and costs was sent to jail for twenty days. Judge Mifflin advised him to return to the country on his serving out his term so that he would be beyond reach of his ever-present temptation.

Thomas Day, who claims to be an Edgerton resident, was sent to jail for six days in default of a fine of $3 and costs.

James Cochran paid a fine of $5 and costs. James Boyle was assessed $10 and costs, but took eleven days' time instead.

Matthew Bradley was given his choice between a fine of $6 and costs or eleven days in jail. He will probably pay his fine some time today.

WOMAN GIVES MASHER THOROUGH TROUNCING

Usual Encounter Witnessed Saturday Night on South Main Street—Insult Punished.

That some women are entirely able to defend themselves and acquit themselves with credit in the manly art of dealing blow for blow, was discovered by a masher or hoodlum who Saturday night addressed an insulting and familiar remark to a large woman near the corner of Court and South Main streets. Spectators of the encounter say that the woman, who perhaps weighed over 200 pounds, threw off her coat, hunk it on a railing in front of the Bates grocery, and gave the young man who accosted her the most thorough trouncing he ever had. He was knocked off his feet two different times, the second time being pushed into the middle of the street car track. Both parties to the encounter were strangers to those who witnessed it. It is not known whether she was a suffragist, but her militant tactics under the circumstances are highly to be commended.

HELD PRELIMINARY MEETING SATURDAY

Commercial Club Committee Met With Commercial Travelers To Discuss State Convention

Secretary F. E. Lane, G. W. Squires, P. Klumb and Edward Amerpol, members of a special committee of the Janesville Commercial club, met with the members of the local council of United Commercial Travelers on Saturday evening in a preliminary meeting to discuss the state convention of the U. C. T., which is to be held in this city next spring. No definite action was taken at the meeting, the session being but a preliminary one to see what the Commercial club would do toward aiding the Janesville Commercial Travelers in handling the convention. The club's committee assured them that the club would lend its support to the local council. As yet no definite plans have been made by the council for the convention, and the meeting Saturday night was the first step taken in that direction.

NEW YORK REPORTED AS SURE FOR TAFT

Republican State Chairman Sends President Word He Will Carry That State Certainly.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 21.—President Taft will carry New York and Judges will win for governor, according to estimates received by President Taft, from the chairman of the Republican state committee of New York.

The statement sent out by the president was as follows: "I am very much pleased to receive estimates from the chairman of the Republican state committee of New York as to the vote to be cast on Nov. 5, next. The reliability of these estimates and of the system in use taking them has been demonstrated in all the campaigns for the last fifteen years. In 1908 they were within 15,000 of the actual majority I received and they showed the Hughes vote almost as cast. In 1904 they were equally reliable on the Roosevelt and Hughes vote.

"The figures given me by the committee are from canvassers and are from 405 election districts out of a total of 3,105 outside of greater New York. They show:

Candidates	Total Vote
Taft	63,955
Wilson	51,204
Debs	1,553
Chaffin	1,137
Roosevelt	18,363
Taft's plurality, 17,694.
"The same districts, report for governor:
Hedges	69,078
Sulzer	50,235
Russell	1,613
MacNichol	2,170
Straus	18,017
Hedges' plurality, 18,840.
"The committee reports that this ratio of vote, if carried out throughout the state, shows a vote in the whole state outside of greater New York for president as follows:
Taft	431,364
Wilson	321,037
Debs	12,394
Chaffin	20,916
Roosevelt	114,860
Taft's plurality, 110,224.
"This would necessarily result in the election of the Republican presidential electors and of Hedges as governor."

Automobile Parties: Five automobile parties were registered at the Grand adm. Myers hotels on Saturday and Sunday. At the Grand were: Mrs. A. Simonson, the Misses J. and C. Mainland, and Louis Severson of Racine, on Saturday; Louis Kulu and party of four of Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Diggins, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Diggins and Mrs. John McFadden of Harvard, on Sunday. Parties at the Hotel Myers on Saturday included: Miss Margaret Livingston, Mrs. Wells, Mrs. S. J. Forester, Miss Donda Forester, and S. E. Livingston of Livingston, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Blackman and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. O'Connor of Whitewater.

LABORERS SAY THEY WILL VOTE FOR TAFT

Enjoyed Prosperity During Past Year and Do Not Want Any Change—Jobs Go Begging.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milwaukee, Oct. 21.—There are more demands for men to do unskilled labor at good wages than the employment bureau can supply, according to the free employment bureau. Contractors, foundry managers and farmers are offering wages much higher than have been offered at this time of the year in former years, but the majority of the unskilled laboring class are enjoying a spell of prosperity and refuse to accept work which does not meet with their satisfaction, and which will be steady and indoors for the winter.

Many laboring men are satisfied with conditions. The greater part of them have their pockets filled with money from summer employment.

At the office of the free employment bureau in Milwaukee the men said that they were going to vote for president Taft because they believed him to have been responsible for their prosperous condition. Several who were looking over the demands for men by employers said that Taft had made the best president they had known. They were not particularly anxious about getting work immediately, they said, at least not until after election.

Farmers are offering $1 and $1.50 a day, with board and lodging, for men to dig potatoes and assist in the fall work, but are unable to secure enough. Men have been shipped during the past three days over three railroads to contractors who asked for unskilled labor. A railroad contractor working on a job outside of Minneapolis recently asked for 100 unskilled laborers at 22½ cents an hour, but the Milwaukee free employment bureau could not send him more than twenty.

Street contractors anxious to complete work before cold weather and snow comes are offering from 22½ to 27 cents an hour for unskilled labor, while the foundries are offering $1.35 to $1.90 a day for the same kind of men and are unable to secure sufficient help.

Although there is an extraordinary demand for boys in shops and factories, they are unusually hard to secure. Boys under 16 years of age are demanding $3 and $9 a week.

Jack Britton and Packey McFarland, both of Chicago, have been matched to meet each other in New York on November 11. Britton was so anxious to box McFarland, that when arrangements for the bout were made he refused to quibble over the weight question. He will permit Packey to enter the ring at any weight that suits him.

Johnny Coulon, bantamweight champion, is in great demand for bouts. Promoter Tom McCarry of Los Angeles wants him to meet Eddie Campi there, but Coulon doesn't care to make the long trip for one battle, and has asked McCarry to arrange a series of three bouts for him. New Orleans promoters also want Coulon for the feature bout of the Mardi Gras carnival.

Chicago baseball players and fans are raising money for a testimonial for Mordecai (Three-fingered) Brown, veteran Cub pitcher who has outlived his usefulness to big leagues and has severed connections with the Cubs. Manager Frank Chance headed the subscription list with a gift of $100. It is planned either to play an exhibition game or to arrange a theatrical performance to give Brown's army of friends opportunity to express their appreciation of all he has done for Chicago and their regret at losing him.

"Michigan has the strongest team in the west," declares R. C. Holderness, of Lehigh, who affiliated at the M. A. C.-Michigan game as referee. "Yost's biggest problem will be in developing his defense, which is noticeably weak. However, I have seen most of the conference teams work, and none of them could trouble Michigan in my opinion. Chicago and Wisconsin would show the most strength."

Holderness says that Coach Williams of Minnesota has a hopeless task on his hands this fall with only one regular and three "scrubs" back from last year's squad. "I look for some trouble in the conference this fall from that very direction," he says. "I don't think the conference will last very long."

Jake Stahl, victorious manager of the Eastern Red Sox, may don foot-ball togs in a few days if he listens to an appeal from the University of Illinois, where last year's hero was captain of the eleven. Every year since his graduation Stahl has returned to assist in whipping the team into shape for the homecoming game and it is hoped that he can do so this year.

There was more betting in Wall street over the result of the world's series games this year than ever before. It is estimated that over $100,000 was won and lost in New York's financial district. One member of the stock exchange bet over $25,000.

BADGER ELEVEN PUTS PURDUE OUT OF RACE

Coach Juneau's Team is One Game Nearer Championship Honors by Victory of Saturday.

(By A. W. Dismiddle.)
Madison, Wisconsin, October 21.—Wisconsin easily eliminated Purdue from the championship race Saturday by defeating them 21 to 0. Only once or twice was Purdue, even within striking distance of Wisconsin's goal and were then unable to carry the ball over. Under the excellent generalship of Gillette the Badgers quitted the field with six touchdowns to their credit.

Throughout the entire game Gillette not only ran his team with skill and headwork, but made long gains time and again, the longest run being of fifty yards through the crowded field. His punting was the best which has been seen on the field here this year. His interception of a forward pass on his own goal line saved Wisconsin from being scored on at one time.

Only twice in the first half was Purdue within striking distance of Wisconsin's goal and then they were unable to keep the ball. Forward passes were intercepted both times and the Cardinals punted to safety. Gillette also intercepted one and made a touchdown after an eighty yard run. Purdue was unable to hold the fast Wisconsin team from the very first, and twenty-one points were scored on them within the first half, the first touchdown being made within five minutes. Starting with a rush the Badgers carried Purdue on their feet, and Van Riper, Wisconsin's big half-back, plowed through his opponents for thirty yards, making the goal on the next down. Throughout the game he played with consistency and his gains were long.

Purdue woke up after this and by a series of spectacular plays ran the ball close to Wisconsin's goal where Gillette intercepted a pass and made his eighty yard run for a touchdown. Outside made the third goal for Wisconsin on a forward pass from Gillette, and the half ended with the score 21 to 0. Shortly before the last whistle in this half Purdue again braced and were almost successful in making a touchdown on a pass. Winston muffed a perfect pass from Gillette, and the half ended with the score 21 to 0. Shortly before the last whistle in this half Purdue again braced and were almost successful in making a touchdown on a pass. Winston muffed a perfect pass from Gillette, and the half ended with the score 21 to 0.

At the start of the third quarter Purdue did not show evidence of having yet solved Wisconsin's method of attack and Tanberg made the fourth touchdown for Wisconsin. Time and again during the game Wisconsin carried the ball for long distances by a series of line plunges which seemed to demoralize the Purdue line men. Tanberg made the fourth touchdown, also following such a series of plays. Gillette scoring again by one of his spectacular end runs which netted 35 points for Wisconsin. On the new kick-off Gillette carried the ball from the center of the field to Purdue's ten-yard line in two long runs and made an attempt to score by a forward pass which went wrong, however.

Torney, who replaced Van Riper at the beginning of the fourth quarter, made a touchdown around Purdue's end with a twenty-five yard run after the ball had been carried back to Purdue's territory. The quarter was finished without further scoring and ended with the ball in the center of the field. Hanna and Oliphant, the two halves, were the stars for Purdue.

Both men making consistent gains and taking advantage of every opportunity to make their distances. The policy makers were game to the end and fought every inch until the whistle, drawing the applause of the spectators by their grit.

HARD GAME FAILS TO DECIDE TITLE

Former Janesville Boys on Lawrence Team 'Big Factor in Preventing Beloit to Score.

Former Janesville boys, three brothers, Earl, Ralph and Walter Tippet, and Russell Wilkinson, whose homes are in this city, playing on the Lawrence college eleven in their game with Beloit on Saturday, were big factors in preventing the state line college from winning and carrying off the state championship honors. The struggle, which was one of the prettiest games staged in the west last week, ended in a 0 to 0 tie.

Coach Catlin's line which was composed of such stalwart men as young Wilkinson, who played right guard throughout the game, was heavier than Beloit's and held like the proverbial stone wall, when their goal was seriously threatened in the third quarter. Fuchs' punt was recovered by Gray on the Lawrence five yard line. Four times Beloit tried to break through their opponents' line, but the defense of the up-state team was wonderful and they took the ball on their own one yard line, returning it to the center of the field on a punt. Two place kicks which were tried by Beloit went wide of the mark and thus they missed their three chances of scoring.

Lawrence threatened to score early in the game when they started down the field for several long gains. But the state liners rallied and held allowing Lawrence to get no closer to their goal than the fifteen-yard line. Walter Tippet at left half and Ralph Tippet at full were consistent ground gainers for Appleton. Their speed combined with weight make them formidable in the back field.

There is some talk of playing a second game on neutral ground, but as Beloit is out after the honors in the Little Five conference as well as in the state and has a full schedule through November it is doubtful whether they can arrange another game. Beloit plays Cornell, Ia., at the latter's field next Saturday and Lake Forest at Beloit on Nov. 2.

WOODWORTH IS STRONG PLAYER FOR MARQUETTE

Janesville Boy Does Clever Work in Game Between Milwaukee School and Nebraska College.

Leigh Woodworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Woodworth of this city, did some clever work at left tackle for the Marquette university eleven in their game with Creighton at Omaha on Saturday. Out of the game last week on account of injuries, "Cheery" came back with plenty of ginger and in tackle around tackle plays was a consistent ground-gainer. He was called upon to punt on several occasions and booted the pigskin for forty yards. Marquette lost the game 20 to 0, although they held their opponents scoreless for the first half.

Ball Player Needed on Chicago.

Rival teams were playing baseball in Leavenworth. In the height of the struggle one man made a dumb play at second base. A few minutes later he slid coming to bat and he stepped on the plate for his third. He was hit by a pitched ball and knocked senseless. His teammates dashed water on his head, stood him up, and left him down again. The crowd cheering all kinds of advice meanwhile. Finally the captain asked for a doctor. One of the rival team started away, and was stopped to ask: "Say, you want an ointment, don't you?" "No, why?" "Well, he's not hit on the head, did he?"

HIGH COST OF LIVING.

People who spend most of their time discussing the high cost of living, will be interested to know that it might be worse, as will be seen by the following record of prices, forty-eight years ago:

"I was clerk in a general merchandise store in 1864. We sold sugar from 20 to 30 cents per pound during the year. Flour was $20 per barrel; kerosene, $1.25 per gallon; rice, 20 cents; brown 4-4 sheeting, 80 cents per yard; calico, 50 cents. Four garments of men's underwear cost $10, that would be $2 now. In 1871 I began a similar business on my own capital. I paid at regular wholesale prices 11 1/2 cents per pound for a sugar; $1.65 per pound for best Young Hyson tea, and 70 cents for the cheapest. Maracaibo coffee was 26 cents per pound. I also paid $260 for thirty barrels of flour—none of it the highest standard. Fish and eggs were cheaper than now in the country; all other goods in proportion to the above prices. I have sold rye from the farm for $1.75 per bushel; oats for 95 cents. I was in business for thirty-one years and sold during that period about half a million dollars' worth of general merchandise in a small country store and was familiar with values. I sold cook stoves for $60, which is double the value now. Wagons and farm implements were double the price of today."

These of course were war prices when a gold dollar was worth $2.50, but they continued for a number of years. Anthracite coal in 1865 was selling at $17.00 per ton and everything else in proportion, and it was not until ten years later, when gold went down to par, that prices reached a common level, and during all these years values declined so steadily that business men found it impossible to make any money.

These experiences are history to the present generation, but they were intensely real to many now still living. Prices may seem high today, but money is so abundant and prosperity so universal that luxuries have become necessities. If compelled to live as cheap and as plain as the people lived back in the late "sixties" we would all get rich, and much of the present day unrest would subside.

DO WE WANT IT?

The Albany Evening Journal calls attention to wage scales in Great Britain as follows:

"Of the eight million adult wage-workers in England—

"Four per cent received less than $3.65 a week.

"Eight per cent are paid from $3.65 to $4.37.

"Twenty per cent receive from $4.37 to $6.10.

"Twenty-one per cent get from $6.10 to $7.30.

"Twenty-one per cent get from $7.30 to $8.52.

"Thirteen per cent get from $8.52 to $10.96.

"Only 6 per cent get more than $10.96."

American wage earners, whose sympathies are with the democratic party, can afford to think twice, and then think again before deciding to vote for Wilson. We had cheap clothing, and cheap everything else, during the last democratic administration, because the country was flooded with foreign goods, the product of half-paid labor.

There is no argument in the statement that these conditions can not come again. The same free trade party, responsible for them, is again asking recognition, and if successful, the people will soon discover that it is only a step from national prosperity to adversity.

Protected industries are but a handful compared to the great army of workmen who enjoy the advantages of protection. It matters not how cheap prices are, a $15 suit at $10 is no bargain unless you have the money, and when industries are paralyzed, as they were in 1893-94, there is neither work nor money for the masses.

Enforced idleness means forced economy and in many cases it means humiliating dependence. The soup house and the bread line are poor substitutes for the home table, yet they become necessities when times are hard. Prosperity is with us. Why not preserve it?

LONG LIFE.

Rome, Ga., is a city of about 14,000. There are here more than fifty men over seventy, who are making a living without any assistance. Some of them are a good deal over seventy, near eighty. This applies to whites only. Most of them served four years in the Southern army, which was a very hard life and calculated to shorten their days. I suppose there are as many ladies of the same age, but as to this I have not investigated. This must be an unusually healthy locality, and there are more old people in it in proportion to numbers than any other place I know of. Fourteen miles from here there lived until a few years ago Mr. Nathan White, a farmer. When he was 100 years old he planted and made all alone three bales of cotton and three hundred bushels of corn, besides splitting his own rails and cutting firewood for the family. I took him to a photographer and he walked without a cane—walked too fast for me. This man lived to be about 112 years old. He was a native of North Carolina.—The Christian Herald.

The Georgia city seems to have set the pace for longevity. Mr. Flynn, the health evangelist, said, the other night, that the average life ought to cover a span of 100 years. That may seem an extravagant statement, and yet the fact remains that life is being prolonged through intelligent care in all parts of the country.

WHO HAS CHANGED?

"Mr. Taft can be trusted." "I believe with all my heart that nowhere within the borders of our great country can there be found another man who will as vigilantly and efficiently as Mr. Taft support the rights of the workingman."

Mr. Taft is "the true friend of reform, the foe of abuses."

"He will be the president of no class, but of the people as a whole."

"He has incurred the bitter hostility of the bigoted."

"During the ten years of my intimate acquaintance with him he has been one of the men upon whose judgment and aid I could always rely in doing everything possible for the cause of the workingman."

"There is in him not the slightest tinge of weakness."

"The honest man of means can feel safe in his hands."

This was Colonel Roosevelt's endorsement of President Taft, four years ago, when he selected him as his successor. It was an honest tribute to an honest man. Everybody knows that Taft has not changed. He is the same conscientious man that he was when elected to the highest office within the gift of the people. There is every reason why he should continue to serve the people for another four years.

The committee of fifteen, representing the enforcement of law and order movement, met for organization Saturday night, and an active campaign may be expected. In the meantime, while the people are waiting with a good deal of impatience, can't something be done to clear the streets of loafers. At 7:30 last night there were fifty boys and young men, loitering around between the corner of Jackson and Main streets, and every woman passing by was obliged to run the gauntlet. No city in the land would tolerate this sort of a nuisance. Why does Janesville do it?

It is estimated that the American people will save one hundred million dollars this year on potatoes alone. The crop is abundant, and prices are about half what they were a year ago. It takes longer to raise a steer, than it does to raise a crop of potatoes, and the price of meats will not show much of a decline, until the supply surpasses the demand. If cheap meats are the most desirable thing they can be secured by voting for the free trade party, for that will mean that the most of us will stop eating meat for a while, and then prices will come down.

The tribute paid to Willie Rugh, the boy hero, who sacrificed his life to save the life of another, was a fitting tribute, and the people of Gary honored themselves by respecting his memory. "Billy" was a hero, unknown to fame a month ago. He was one of God's common people, but the spirit which possessed him, and prompted sacrifice was the spirit of the Master, more beautiful than rare, because it often comes to the surface.

PRESS AND POLITICS.

Quite Enough.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Col. Roosevelt demands that "the discussion be carried on precisely as I had not been shot."

All will feel like doing anything within reason to gratify the colonial at the present time. But to the above request it seems right and proper to demur.

Discussion may and must go on. But it would be most unfortunate should the discussion go on in the same tone and key. Decent men everywhere had grown tired of and disgusted with a verbal "dogfight," reeking with the slang of the prize ring and the epithets of the pot-house, in the course of which the president of the United States had been compared with a "pickpocket," men of the standing of Elihu Root

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

The Winner.

He met up with a pretty gal, whose fortune was her face. And he was quite enamored of her piquant charm of grace. He liked to idly bask within the sunshine of her smile; Her dimples and her winsome ways held him for a quite a while. But quite an unexpected thing transpired one fateful day, He sized her up quite carefully, then went upon his way.

He met up with a learned gal who wasn't long on looks, But who knew all the authors well and could name all their books. She had old Socrates by heart, philosophers and all. And gave her hero mental food whenever he chanced to call. But something happened once again, just why no one can say, He sized her up quite carefully, then went upon his way.

He met up with a witty gal, whose small talk was immense. He listened to her sallies with an interest intense. She was so quick at making puns, she entertained him right. Until he went clean daffy and he called there every night. But somehow he soon tired of her brand of repartee. He sized her up quite carefully, then went upon his way.

He met up with another gal who wasn't long on looks, Who knew no brilliant repartee, nor cared a snap for books. He didn't know just why he stuck around so faithfully, Until one night she made some dandy sense for tea. Folks thought "would be the same old tale, but it was not. No, sir. He sized her up quite carefully, and then he married her.

According to Uncle Abner.

One of the good jobs on a sweltering day is to sit for ten or twelve hours behind a plate glass show window demonstrating a safety razor sharpener.

Anse Judson doesn't know whether he is going to have a blonde or a brunette stenographer. His wife hasn't made up her mind yet. Anse has had eighteen stenographers in the last three months.

Hank Tumins says he is a man of regular habits. He gets soused every week.

No lady's education kin be said to be complete until she kin play "My Rosary" on the pianer.

You can't catch a feller much worse than to say, "He's a fine feller, but it's too bad he drinks."

and Woodrow Wilson had been called political crooks and falsifiers, and half the prominent men in the campaign have been branded as liars.

Of that kind of "discussion" there has been more than enough; and if the manifold expressions of personal good will for Col. Roosevelt from every quarter result in a large abatement of the rancor and blackguardism that have marked this campaign, much good will have been gained and nothing lost by anybody.

La Follette Charges.

Beloit News: The charges made by Senator La Follette in this week's issue of his magazine regarding the undermining of his candidacy for the presidential nomination are surely serious. They are not such as can be laughed away by the men who appeared to be his supporters, but later switched to Roosevelt.

These charges have a real bearing on the present campaign. Their truth or falsity would do much toward deciding the attitude of many voters toward Roosevelt. If the colonel was guilty of the double dealing which La Follette sees in the desertion of his own cause for that of Roosevelt it is inconceivable that sincere progressives could give him their support, no matter how loud his professions.

Dangerous Ground.

Wausau Record Herald: Secretary Fear charges that the remission of over seven hundred thousand dollars of state taxes in 1894 was made for political effect, and should be counted in with the revenues of that year for the purpose of comparing expenses then with those of the present year. But is not this an unsafe statement at the present time? How are the people to know that two million dollars remitted this week was not also the result of some kind of political desire?

An Experience Meeting.

Rockford Register Gazette: Why wouldn't a big experience meeting of workmen who were in Rockford from 1893 to 1897 be a good and novel thing in this campaign. Let them make five minute speeches on their experiences during the period when the democrats were last in power in this nation. It would be the most effective campaign argument that could be made in favor of the straight republican ticket and a consolation.

Hercule Devotion to Duty.

A striking example of fortitude and devotion to duty occurred recently at Old Trafford, England, when a signalman stuck to his post and manipulated the signals in his box for nearly an hour after being accidentally shot in the eye by a member of a local gun club pigeon shooting in the neighborhood. With a moan the signalman fell back into a chair, blinded and bleeding, but remembering his duty, quickly got up and concentrated his faculties on the work before him. With his hand to his wounded eye, and tortured by the terrible thought that the sight was probably destroyed, he pulled the levers while the trains roared by. For 50 minutes, in awful agony, he did this, until relief came.

New Material for Floors.

They are making the floors of big office buildings in Germany of a mixture of magnesium chloride, pulverized magnesite and sawdust, laid from two to four inches thick. Consul-General Robert P. Skinner reports from Hamburg that such floors are waterproof, almost fireproof, crack free, warm under foot, elastic, sound proof and cheaper than pine flooring, tiling or stone.

Makings of a Pugilist.

"I understand your boy has the makings of a champion pugilist." "I really believe he has. He positively won't fight with anybody he isn't sure he can whip."

Mme Sarah Bernhardt

in Duma's gripping drama

"CAMILLE"

BERNHARDT, by playing "Camille" for reproductions as a motion picture has glorified the motion picture and raised it to a commanding position beside the living stage of stars. When the greatest actress of the world was first asked to play before the camera she regarded it as a condescension to accede but after the revelation of the pictures in the studio and the approval of the Parisian Critics, she with characteristic enthusiasm, cried out to the director of the Comedie Francaise, the house of Moliere, where she won her first laurels:

"I rely on these films for immortality; I live in hope of recording my entire repertoire for these marvelous projections." And Rostand, the first literary and dramatic genius of France, who wrote "L'Aiglon" for Bernhardt, turned to her after seeing the photo-play "Camille" and exclaimed: "Madame, you have ennobled the film." Bernhardt herself is now a fiery champion of the photo-play; it was after long thought and many visits to studios that she consented to co-operate with the camera and conquer the new world of motion picture photography. She now reigns the queen of both the living and the still stages. These wonderful reels reveal her genius to the millions who, craving a sight of the incomparable artiste, have yet been unable to see her on the sensational, immensely costly tours which have carried her all over the frontiers and made her the most famous woman in the world.

FIND GRAPE THIEVES INSIDE COUNTY JAIL

Peter Ford and Hugh Cashman, Serving Time For Drunkenness, Identified as Fruit Vendors.

Clue to the robbers who broke open a refrigerator car in this city Friday night and stole fifty baskets of grapes from a carload consigned to Hanley Brothers was found by Chief of Police Appleby last night and as a result Hugh Cashman and Peter Ford, now serving time in the county jail for intoxication will be re-arrested on a charge of burglary before released.

Reports reached the ears of the chief that two men, one tall and a voluble talker, and another short and older, had sold grapes in the jail and to a few other customers Friday night for the exceedingly low price of eight cents a basket. This description at once suggested to the chief the two men who had been sent to jail that morning. He took with him to the jail, the man who described the grape salesmen, and he identified Cashman and Ford as the same. They denied having any knowledge of the sale or robbery of any grapes. The fruit they offered for sale was taken up very quickly. The police tried to secure some evidence but was told that they had already been converted into jelly. One hotel man is said to have ordered twenty-five baskets at the price offered. It is probable that Cashman Ford paid for their liquor with the proceeds of the fruit sale.

THOUGHT BODY THAT OF JANESVILLE MAN

Corpse Found in Mississippi River at Dubuque Later Found to Be That of James Murphy.

Janesville police do not believe that the body found in the Mississippi river at Dubuque, Iowa, Saturday was that of a Janesville man, as the description given them by the coroner there does not correspond with that of any man missing from this city. At first the name of the man found on the letter was thought to be James Murtagh, but later it was discovered his name was James Murphy. He was about forty-five years of age and weighed over 200 pounds. He had a light mustache, and his appearance that of a millwright. Papers on his person suggested that he might be a railway man. A small mirror with the name of E. B. Connors, Janesville, printed on the back was found on the dead man. It is believed he fell off a high bridge over the river. The body had been in the water nine days.

The only disappearance not accounted for here is that of Sidney Rolfe; a railway workman, who has been missing ever since August 5. His description does not bear any resemblance to that of the drowned man.

The Rowlands, lecture and sketch artist, at the Baptist church on Wednesday evening. First number of King's Daughters' Lecture course.

SEVEN HIGH SCHOOL BOYS INTO TROUBLE

Attempt to Blacken Faces of Freshmen Attending Banquet Lands Them in Police Station.

Seven high school boys saw the inside of a cell at the police station for the better part of an hour Saturday night as the result of blackening the faces of a number of freshmen who were gathered near the high school for the purpose of attending the annual Senior-Freshman banquet. The material they used was shoe blacking. Patrolmen Sam Brown and Harry Smith responded to the police call and succeeded in rounding up the offenders. After they had been put under lock and key Principal H. C. Buell was called to the station. He took their names, administered a severe reprimand and told them that they would be suspended if caught at such mischief again. They were afterwards permitted to go home, but were summoned to appear before Principal Buell this morning.

EDGERTON ELEVEN DOWNS EVANSVILLE

Edgerton High School Outplays Opponents and Wins Game Saturday by 25 to 12 Score.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Edgerton Oct. 21.—In Saturday's game at Edgerton driving park Edgerton outplayed their heavier opponents, defeating them by the decisive score of 25 to 12. Although outweighted 20 pounds to the man Edgerton's victory was never in doubt. Mapes, the Evansville fullback, proved himself their only ground-gainer, and showed up Edgerton's comparatively weak line.

C. Campbell and Sutton were the mainstays of Edgerton's backfield, Hitchcock being a trifle too light for half. Jay Campbell, quarterback, managed the team in fine shape, using good judgment in every crisis. McIntosh and E. Sweeney at left and right end, respectively, starred, and gained much ground on forward passes.

Mapes of Evansville kicked off to Sweeney who returned it to their 45-yard line. He then carried the ball on a forward pass to their 5-yard line and C. Campbell made a touchdown through their line. McIntosh kicked goal and neither side scored for the rest of the quarter.

Sweeney ended the second quarter by a touchdown on a forward pass. McIntosh failed to kick goal.

Campbell made two touchdowns on trick plays in the third quarter.

Evansville made both their touchdowns the last quarter on line smashes. The line-ups were as follows:

Edgerton	McIntosh
Becker	Brue
Dallman	C. Sweeney
Thorpe	Dawe
Kessenick	Devine
Mayer	Whitford
Dalton	E. Sweeney
Miller	J. Campbell
Zelder	Sutton
DeHaine	Hitchcock
Haines	C. Campbell
Mapes	Kellogg
Sherman	Earle

Observations taken at 8 a. m., 75th meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isotherms (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 50°, and 100°. Clear; partly cloudy; cloudy; rain; snow; report missing. Arrows with the wind. First figures, lowest temperature past 12 hours; second, precipitation of .1 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

A barometric trough stretches from Lake Superior southwestward over the Mississippi valley to the Southern Slope of the Rockies, where a center of low barometer has formed. Rain has fallen in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and the lower Mississippi valley under the influence of this disturbance, and cloudiness prevails in the North-west. An area of high barometer occupies the northern Rocky mountain region, and is attended by generally fair and cold weather, minimum of 20 degrees or lower being recorded at some of the higher stations.

The barometer is also high on the Atlantic coast, and the weather is fair in New England and on the middle Atlantic coast, but it is showery on the South Atlantic coast.

British Cows Which Eat Fish.
Dried codfish, unsalted, is eaten by the inhabitants of the Faroe islands (between Shetland and Iceland) or their cows, says a consular report. The fish, which is of the cod type, is considered good for cows, as it enables them, it is stated, to yield an ample supply of rich milk. The dried fish is not cooked before being eaten; it is merely laid on stones and then pounded with stones or hammers.

His Real Weed.
"Say, old man, don't get disheartened just because your first investment went wrong; the market is full of good things, and if you will come down to the office I'll give you a pointer." "That won't do me any good; what I want is a retriever."

He Couldn't Work Her.
While a Jewel City girl was selling tickets for the picture show, a man called for tickets and pushed in a five-dollar gold piece to pay for them, but the girl shoved it back. The man insisted it was money all right, but the girl informed him that he couldn't work her, and he didn't. He had to go out and borrow a dime. There are plenty of Kansas youngsters who never saw a gold piece.—Kansas City Star.

Kickers.
What is odious but noise, and people who scream and howl! People whose vane points always east, who live to dine, who send for the doctor, who coddle themselves, who toast their feet on the register, who intrigue to secure a padded chair and a corner out of the draught. Suffer them once to begin the enumeration of their infirmities, and the sun will go down on the unfinished tale.—Emerson.

THIS YOUNG AMERICAN PEERESS BREAKS PRECEDENT AND LIVES HAPPILY WITH A LORD, WHO ACTUALLY LOVES HER, IT IS SAID

In these days when the air is so full of rumors of unhappy international marriages, it is pleasant to note that at least one American girl is living happily with a foreign nobleman. She is Lady Ashburton, and was formerly Miss Francis Donnelly, daughter of J. C. Donnelly, of New York. Her marriage to the English nobleman whose name she bears, was one of affection so it is said, rather than the financial motive on which so many international matches are based. Her personal attractions and wit have held captive British society.

Since Dr. Leon Meunier, a noted Paris food specialist, gave out a statement that crawling on all fours after meals was an aid to digestion, fashionable French dressmakers immediately got up a costume to do work for this form of exercise.

A club was formed called the "On-All-Fours Club" and the ladies wore these gowns. The costume adopted is in black and white satin.

"THE COMMON LAW." It is but natural that any book which has achieved such widespread reputation and one that has been discussed from every advantage should be selected as a vehicle for stage presentation. Therefore, it is not at all surprising that the leading managers have vied with one another in their eagerness to secure the dramatic rights of Robert W.

special prize. Manager A. H. Woods was the most successful and to him the author accorded every privilege with the sole understanding that the dramatization should not allow the author's intentions to suffer as in many cases. That Manager Woods has faithfully carried out his part of the contract was fully attested in the production made last season which not only delighted Mr. Chambers but made an extraordinary strong appeal wherever the play was seen.

It was particularly noticeable that the sensational interest which gave to the novel its far-reaching command had, instead of being lessened, become accentuated for acting purposes, and the audience, many of whom were familiar with the book, manifested no small appreciation for the admirable work performed by the play doctor.

"The Common Law" will be seen at the Myers Theatre Friday evening, Oct. 25, and judging from the general tone of expectation, it is quite reasonable to assume that the hearing will be participated in by one of the largest gatherings from a theatrical point considered, ever recorded in this city.

The cast, employed by Manager Woods, with a view upholding the dignity of this offering, taken in its entirety is said to be one of the finest organizations ever assembled and Mr. Woods has likewise bestowed splendid consideration with regards to the scenic environment even going so far as to include all of the furnishings and furniture, as part of the stage equipment.

ALICE RINGLING, PLAYING IN "THE COMMON LAW."

Chambers. "The Common Law," a novel, which in all probabilities, created the most profound sensation in recent years.

"DISCOVERER" OF FAMOUS OPERA STAR WOULD LIKE $100,000 OF HER MONEY

Miss Louise Lyne and Oscar Hammerstein.

Miss Louise Lyne, the great opera star, has been sued by her "discoverer," Oscar Hammerstein, for $100,000 on a libel charge. The trouble arose over Miss Lyne's stating in a newspaper interview that she had not the famous Oscar on the head with the curls of "Faust." This Mr. Hammerstein emphatically denies.

The accompanying picture is the only one that has ever been taken of Lyne and the impresario together.

WITH ONLY FOUR WIVES LEFT, POOR OLD ABDUL HAMID LEADS SIMPLE LIFE

Abdul Hamid and some of his diversions.

If you have any pity or sympathy to spare, by all means give it to poor old Abdul Hamid, one-time sultan of Turkey, who was driven from his throne and is now in retirement. Don't pity him for being no longer ruler of Turkey. He deserves congratulations for that. But feel sorry for him because of the vast collection of wives which he once had, but four now remain to comfort him in his old age.

Abdul is living quietly now, and has become an exponent of the simple life. Probably because it's the least expensive. He whittles away his time working in a carpenter shop, and smokes for hours together in his garden.

Pineapple as a Pepsin.

The properties of the pineapple are extremely healthful, its contents of pepsin being of so high an average that, of all the fruits, it takes the highest rank among those possessing the qualities that aid digestion.

If pineapples were not so artificially high priced it is a certainty that the citizens of the United States would discover in them a highly beneficial food medicine, as well as a delightful fruit.

A quarter of a pineapple taken at breakfast would afford more tonic than two grapefruit. A glass of the juice of fresh pineapple, taken during a heavy meal, would furnish pepsin enough to make the after-dinner pepsin tablet unnecessary, claims an authority.

Pineapple juice is a drink practically unknown to Americans, but the people of South America, where the pineapples often sell for less than 1 cent each, drink vast quantities of the fresh pineapple juice.

Quite Unique.

Ray T. Baker, warden of the Nevada penitentiary, is abolishing, with success, all the brutalizing rules of the old-time prison system.

Mr. Baker's prisoners lead healthy, industrious lives. They study and they work.

And on leaving prison they engage in honest labor.

"Our institution," Mr. Baker said to a reporter, "isn't much like a reformatory. I once visited in my youth."

"A very strange thing happened in this reformatory back in '89," a warden said to me.

"Yes?"

"And what was that?" I asked.

"One of our prisoners," he replied, "re-

The advance in the Bank of England's discount rate from four to five per cent, was not unexpected, although the nervousness, which has pervaded all European centers as a result of the European war scare, no doubt hastened the bank's action. The unusual rates for money demanded throughout Europe has had little effect on rates in our market, but the fact that European rates have moved up to a higher level will no doubt result in higher rates here than would otherwise have prevailed. The outlook is that money will remain around 6% until after the January half yearly disbursements have been made.

The Stock Market.

A comparison of the decline in prices for American and European stocks, as a result of the European war scare, demonstrates that prices for American stocks are at this time on a very firm foundation. During the past week some of the more speculative European issues showed a decline of as much as $50 a share, while the decline in American stocks was but from three to five points. This stability of prices for our stocks is the result of our splendid commercial and industrial position at the present time. Another factor which has aided in sustaining prices is the strong technical position of our market. The length of time which has taken to accomplish the advance in prices to the present level has resulted in steady investment absorption of the stocks which have been offered for sale. Consequently, stocks being in the hands of the investor, rather than the speculator, there was no vulnerable speculative account to throw stocks overboard, as was the case in Paris, Berlin and St. Petersburg. London and the United States have both been buyers on the decline. This is a good omen for the future of prices.

Answers to Inquiries.
American Malt Corporation.—Net earnings for the fiscal year, ending August 31st, are expected to equal at least 9% on the Preferred stock. An increase of the dividend rate on this issue from four to six per cent, seems highly probable.

American Public Utilities Company Preferred Stock.—This issue receives dividends at the rate of 6%, and is in fair demand at present prices. The Common stock of this Company has great speculative possibilities and will probably have a good advance from the present level.

Bethlehem Steel.—There are rumors current that this Company will absorb the Pennsylvania Steel Company and Cambria Steel Company. Such a combination would have a capacity of approximately three million tons of pig iron per year. Bethlehem Steel Preferred has had a sharp advance due to the above rumor and the possibility that the stock will be put upon a 5% basis.

Northern Pacific.—The result of the past year's operations shows a balance for the surplus account equal to approximately $2,000,000. The earnings for the first three months of the present fiscal year are in excess of last year.

Importance of Iron in Blood.
Iron is one of the most important of organic salts. It makes good red blood and distributes the oxygen taken in from the air. Cooking any foods containing organic iron destroys its usefulness, as it is converted into an insoluble element. Lettuce contains much iron. Other vegetables containing iron are spinach, carrots, onions, strawberries, etc.

But she found it again. That is the good part of the story. It cost her a lot of pride to lose it, and just a dollar to find it. You see, the dollar is the price of a bottle of Hall's Hair Renewer. No coloring of the hair. First of all, she talked it over with her doctor. This gave her confidence to go ahead. Advertisement.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

The Old-Fashioned Woman

SHE WAS old and bent and wrinkled, and her hands were work-worn. She had a little old-fashioned bonnet perched on her gray hair, and tied under her chin with ribbons. She wore a black skirt and a gray waist, with a quaint, old-time black lace fichu fastened about her throat. So far as her clothing went, she was quite out of date, but everything she wore was scrupulously clean and neat.

Her face was tired and somewhat sad; and as the trolley sped through the country, she dozed, and her head nodded. On her left hand gleamed a wedding ring, and as one looked at her work-worn hands and her sad, care-worn face, and her old-fashioned, though well-cared for clothes, one wondered just what sort of wife and mother she had been.

Had she shirked? Had she side-stepped when difficulties arose and trouble came? Or had she stuck to her post faithfully, no matter how hot the fire, or how failing her strength?

It wasn't difficult to answer that question. One could see at a glance that she was the loyal-hearted, old-fashioned sort of woman who would be faithful to what she considered her duty to the very end, no matter through what fiery furnaces it might lead her.

Women's rights are without doubt to be commended. It is only just that woman should develop her individuality, that she should have her freedom to do and to be what she wishes. And it is also no doubt a good thing, and will make for progress, that when a husband doesn't treat his wife fairly, she can before the law demand and get justice. Woman's place in the world is without question much better than it was fifty years ago.

But, nevertheless, the old-fashioned woman was a noble band. They didn't have much chance to develop individuality. They had to endure whatever treatment their husbands saw fit to mete out to them. They worked hard and they went without things, and they had little pleasure, as compared with what the women of today have. But despite the fact, that from a modern standpoint they were a down-trodden race, with little means of self-expression, they are nevertheless to be greatly honored.

They made comfortable homes. They stood by the erring, and nursed the sick. They reared a host of children. And though many today think women have gone beyond such things, and that such work hinders the individual development, which is every woman's right, it is before this heroic self-sacrifice and unselfishness of these old-fashioned women that we should stand with uncovered heads.

We may have evolved beyond such a life. But it is not to be despised. The old-fashioned woman is a woman who should always command our sincerest respect. How many of us would have, today, the courage and the steadfastness to live up to her standards?

A PROBLEM IN MATHEMATICS

HERE is a problem in mathematics for every thoughtful American. If the present generation is in twice as much of a hurry as the past generation, at what pace will the next generation travel?

Now that the children have gone back to school, when I look out my study window, almost every morning I see at least two or three youngsters walking their little legs off, or actually running towards school.

This early is the American habit of hurrying for every appointment inaugurated. Thus early do I say? What am I thinking about? According to one letter friend, our children are taught the hurrying habit as soon as they leave the cradle. "Please write something," she urges me, "about the way people try to make little children keep up with their own longer strides. It makes me feel very sad to see a little toddler not more than two or three years old dragged along at a dog trot to keep up with some older person. I feel sure that the seeds of heart disease are sown in that way."

I don't doubt it, my friend, and I also feel sure that these seeds are tended and watered by the hurrying to school habit, which careless parents permit.

In fact, I once came into contact with tragic proof of that fact. For a little girl whom I used to know ran all the way to school one hot afternoon after a hearty non-day meal, dropped into her seat, laid her head on the desk for the opening prayer and never lifted it again.

Of course, such tragedies as that are mercifully rare, but even when it does not cause any immediate calamity, the hurrying habit is sooner or later a trouble breeder, and we ought to teach our children to fight it.

I suppose we hurry, because we hope to accomplish more, to crowd more into our days, but if you will take notice you will find that the people who accomplish the most are those who never hurry.

At a house where I once boarded, the twelve-year-old daughter of the hostess did all the serving. Two grown women would undoubtedly have balked at her task, for there were sometimes 25 or 40 guests, but this wonderful little girl performed it gracefully and serenely. I used to watch her in wonder for she never carried more than two or three dishes at a time; and she was not old enough to use the principles of scientific management. The secret of her success was simply that she never hurried and hence was never hurried, never lost time or poised.

The best thing this generation can do for the next is to refuse to pass on its own heritage of hurry. Let us do what we can to teach our children that the truest proverb ever written is "Haste makes waste," and waste not only of time, but of happiness, health and efficiency.

the grains become tender in a short time.

Rice should be steamed, not boiled, and it should not be hurried in cooking. Wash it through several changes of water until all the coating of glucose is removed, and the water looks clear. The rice grains are covered with this substance to keep them free of dust and moisture, when it is not well washed off the grains will be sticky.

Allow three times as much cold salted water as you have rice, cook in double boiler until all the water is absorbed. The older rice is, the longer time will be required to cook it. The following excellent, quick dish:

Don't Pay 50 Cents for Worthless Hair Tonic—Use Old, Reliable, Harmless "Danderine"—Get Results. No Disappointment.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff; that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp; which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast.

Rice croquettes: Two cups cold of 16 to make her hair? (2) Is it boiled rice, two well-beaten eggs, a little salt, form the mixture into balls and roll in crumbs. Fry like doughnuts.

Raisins and rice or steamed rice pudding. Two and a half cups of should be served first? (3) Does it harm a girl's reputation to carry on post-cup of raisins, one-half cup of milk, one-half cup of sugar. Flavor and steam in a double boiler.

Rice pudding: Two cups boiled rice, one cup milk, one-half cup of sugar, yolks of two eggs, half a cup of nut meats, half a cup of dates, seeded and chopped, half a cup of raisins, butter to make rich. Bake in a moderate oven until brown over top. Beat the whites of two eggs and sweeten and use for a meringue.

Rice batter cakes: Mix a pint of sour milk with a rounded teaspoon of soda and a level teaspoon of salt, add a tablespoon of sugar and a cup of rice and one cup of flour. This should make a thin batter; if necessary add more milk. Fry on a griddle and serve with hot syrup.

Molded rice: Use one cup of rice, one cup of milk, one-third cup of sugar, a pinch of salt, grated rind and juice of one orange, one cup of cream, and a tablespoon of dissolved gelatin. Mix all these together and keep stirring until the mixture begins to grow firm. Pour into small cups, or individual molds or a large mold. Place on ice and serve with fruit syrup or with cream.

When rice is served as a vegetable it may be dressed with salt, pepper and butter or with a curry sauce made by adding curry powder to a rich white sauce and pouring it over the rice. Tomatoes and rice, rice and cheese, ham and rice, are tempting dishes. When the weather is cold, steamed rice with sausage cakes and fried apples will serve for a satisfying breakfast.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mis Cellaneous, though a small and dainty dame, is one of the most extravagant; her expenses never amount to much over five or ten cents, but what enormous bills they foot up to, at the end of the month, often more than the clothing.

The old saw that tells us to look out for the pennies for the pounds will take care of themselves is one we should heed.

Five, ten and fifteen cents, with sometimes a quarter, doesn't seem much, and so we buy the new pin or collar, a magazine or some candy too often, and our purses are flat with nothing to show for the money spent. If these expenditures were only occasional, it would not matter so much, but the very smallness of the amount is our undoing.

It is the wise woman who keeps an account, itemizing even the miscellaneous purchases, for she will then see what even small things come to, at the end of the month.

One doesn't care to be penurious or miserly, traits that are decidedly unpleasant, but we must, if we live within our income, use discretion in our buying.

It is the little foxes, for the little leaks that we need to watch, for most of us consider well when large amounts are to be spent, that we get what we pay for, and heed the article.

Pineapple Delight.—Take fresh or canned pineapple and cut into eights. Pare sweet, juicy oranges and remove each section, freeing each from the membrane and seeds. Sprinkle lemon juice over the pineapple. Arrange the orange sections and pineapple pieces in a dish, sprinkle with powdered sugar or a mixture of it and maple sugar. Over this sprinkle a layer of coconut. Any canned fruit may be used with the oranges; peaches and pears are especially good.

Savory Toast.—Chicken gravy poured over nicely buttered and softened toast makes a nice supper or luncheon dish. With a crisp salad and a cup of cocoa one has a good meal.

Left Auntie Pondering. Ernest is constantly asking his indulgent aunt for pennies, which are never refused. She recently said to him: "Now, Ernest, you may ask away for a penny whenever you want one, but you won't ask other people for one, will you?" "Oh, no," he answered with an air of letting his relatives off easy. "I will ask other people for a nickel."

ignore Him.

The best way to get rid of the mosquito, says the Brooklyn Eagle, is to get the habit of not minding him, like the natives. No native or resident of a few months in a mosquito section minds mosquitoes any more than he does flies. But this method is slow in its appeal to the man who feels the pests attack him with more zeal than they do the natives.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1) What is the most fashionable way for a girl of 16 to make her hair? (2) Is it proper for a girl to carry on correspondence with a boy with whom she formerly kept company, but whom she hasn't seen since school began?

They are silly good friends. What a girl's reputation to carry on post-cup of raisins, one-half cup of milk, one-half cup of sugar. Flavor and steam in a double boiler.

Rice pudding: Two cups boiled rice, one cup milk, one-half cup of sugar, yolks of two eggs, half a cup of nut meats, half a cup of dates, seeded and chopped, half a cup of raisins, butter to make rich. Bake in a moderate oven until brown over top. Beat the whites of two eggs and sweeten and use for a meringue.

Rice batter cakes: Mix a pint of sour milk with a rounded teaspoon of soda and a level teaspoon of salt, add a tablespoon of sugar and a cup of rice and one cup of flour. This should make a thin batter; if necessary add more milk. Fry on a griddle and serve with hot syrup.

Molded rice: Use one cup of rice, one cup of milk, one-third cup of sugar, a pinch of salt, grated rind and juice of one orange, one cup of cream, and a tablespoon of dissolved gelatin. Mix all these together and keep stirring until the mixture begins to grow firm. Pour into small cups, or individual molds or a large mold. Place on ice and serve with fruit syrup or with cream.

When rice is served as a vegetable it may be dressed with salt, pepper and butter or with a curry sauce made by adding curry powder to a rich white sauce and pouring it over the rice. Tomatoes and rice, rice and cheese, ham and rice, are tempting dishes. When the weather is cold, steamed rice with sausage cakes and fried apples will serve for a satisfying breakfast.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1) Will tan do so.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Edna K. Woolley

cause, she didn't want mother to worry. But when mother saw her daughter she was more than worried, she was frightened.

IN JULIET'S CLASS.

Less than four years ago a certain little girl—just a little girl, for she was only fourteen years old—fell desperately in love with a young man ten years older than herself. She must be married to him right away, she told her mother. She simply couldn't live if she couldn't be his wife.

Mother told the child that she was too young to know her own heart; that in a few years she would probably have an entirely different kind of man and be able to select a more suitable husband. She didn't tell her daughter the physical perils of such a marriage, because she was one of those old-fashion mothers who believed that a girl should be entirely ignorant—she called it "innocence"—until knowledge was forced upon her.

When told of the mother's objections, the girl's lover urged her to elope with him. She finally did, and lied about her age and was married.

That was a little less than four years ago, as I said.

The other day the mother returned from a visit to her daughter. The wife—still a child in years, for she isn't eighteen yet—is the mother of three babies. She is a physical wreck and looks like an old woman. Without any help at all in the household, she cooks and washes and nurses her babes.

She had been near death's door, but had not notified her mother before.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN Food Specialist

HEALTH IMPROVED BY QUITTING TEA AND COFFEE.

"The elimination of tea and coffee has helped me wonderfully," writes a reader. "My bowels are more regular, my face is more clear, my eyes are much brighter, and things look entirely different to me now."

In this case the temperament was unusually sensitive, as the handwriting indicates, but while not all will notice such remarkable benefit from eliminating all table stimulants, benefit must result in every case after the system becomes adapted to the change. The stimulation of tea and coffee may seem to be necessary and beneficial but this is only because the system has become so adapted to them that the omission of them at first causes more or less nervous collapse, which is in itself sufficient indication that they are injurious. Water is the most beneficial drink. Milk and grape juice are foods. Tea and coffee can not be included in this class. Advice has already been given on the gradual elimination of these.

away, like the toys, when one is older.

"And he's tired of me, mother, dear. I'm only a child to him. While I've had to stay home tending babies and doing hard work here, he's been out with other people. He sees women that are cared for and who look well, and he blames me for not being like them."

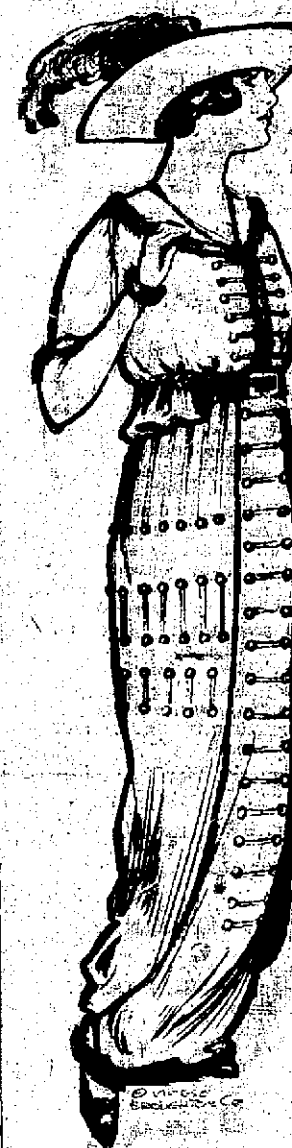

"Mother, dear," wailed the little thing, "do you remember when you used to rub my feet after I had played hard all day and came in very tired?" They are so much more tired now, mother, but there's nobody to rub my poor tired feet for me now."

Heed mother's advice. Little girls who think you are in love. If mother isn't very sensible—we must admit that some are not—go to father. And if you aren't on confidential terms with either father or mother, go ask the family doctor. I know of no person better qualified to give spiritual as well as physical counsel than a wise old physician.

His Awful "Break"

The little god of bad breaks is ever seeking victims. He made a young man at a social gathering the other evening bluish for a week. The young man had been introduced to a young woman. "Why, I know a lady by the same name in Kansas City," he remarked, "only she's a beautiful girl." The young woman froze him to the spot, and he was glad of an excuse to leave the gathering.

Home Gambling.

A man may gamble at home with impunity, according to the unanimous ruling of the appellate division of the New York supreme court. He may engage in any game of chance, and money may change hands, but it must be at home. The case which evoked the court's decision grew out of the arrest of a man who was caught in the act, with four others. In the police court he was held for the grand jury on the charge of being a common gambler. The county court sustained the charge, and the defendant's attorney carried the case to the appellate division. If the defendant had been caught gambling away from home his offense would have been a crime. The identical act committed within his own four walls is not a crime, for a man's home is his "castle," even if it is only a flat. Presumably the four other persons present at the game also lived at the same place, otherwise they would have been offenders against the law.—Boston Globe.

Vaccinated Cop Faints.

Vaccinators of the department of health "scratched" 118 promiscuous "cops" the other day, and one of them—more than six feet tall and built like a Hercules—fainted when it came his turn, crumpling in a heap at the sight of the abrasion of his skin. Many babies in their mothers' arms submitted to the ordeal with just a whimper. It is not unusual for grown-ups to display more agitation than children when being vaccinated at the department offices, but there has been only one other occasion when a policeman fainted. That was two years ago, and he was also a big man.—Baltimore American.

MESSAGE TO WORKING WOMEN

All women work; some in homes, some in church, some in the whirl of society, and in stores, offices and shops, tens of thousands are on the never ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All women, however, are subject to the same physical laws, and suffer alike from the same physical disturbances and weaknesses, peculiar to their sex. Every woman, no matter what her station in life, should remedy that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the great remedy for female ills, in which she should place her trust.

Women Little Thought Of.

Among some Brazilian tribes it is believed that the presence of women will hinder wine from fermenting. In Nukshiva should a woman happen to touch or sit near an object put under taboo, and rendered sacred and inviolable because of its contact with man, it cannot be further made use of, and she has to pay the penalty with her life in consequence. In Tahiti women must respect the places resorted to by men, as well as their fishing tackle and weapons.—North American Review.

Lights on Baby Carriage.

"I was puzzled the other night by two lights which kept approaching me on the sidewalk," said a wayfarer. "I finally made out that they were on a baby carriage. It struck me as a pretty good idea, for the lights didn't seem to bother the baby at all and they certainly kept people from running into the carriage in the dark. The lanterns were made like small carriage lamps and were fastened in sockets."

The Lady of the Mount

by FREDERIC S. ISNAM
AUTHOR OF "THE STROLLERS" "UNDER THE ROSE" ETC.
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WATERS

COPYRIGHT 1912 BY THE BOBBY-MERRILL CO.

And so my lady and her guests danced and made merry on the sands below, and the people came out from the mainland, or down from the houses in the town at the base of the rock, to watch. A varied assemblage of gaunt-looking men and bent, low-browed women, for the most part they stood sullen and silent; though exchanging meaning glances now and then as if to say: "Do you note all this ostentation—all this glitter and display? Yes; and some day—" Upon brooding brows, in deep-set eyes, on furrowed faces a question and an answer seemed to gleam and pass. Endowed with natural optimism and a vivacity somewhat heedless, my lady appeared unconscious of all this latent enmity until, an unlooked-for incident, justifying in a measure the governor's denunciations, broke in upon the evening's festivities and claimed her attention.

On the beach, lighted by torches, a dainty minuet was proceeding gaily, when through the throng of onlookers, a young man with dark hair set on a frame tall and powerful, worked his way carefully to a point where he was afforded at least a restricted view of the animated spectacle. Absorbed each in his or her way in the scene before them, no one noticed him, and, with hat drawn over his brow, and standing in the shadow of the towering head-dresses of several peasant women, he seemed content to attract as little attention to himself as possible. His look, at first quick and alert, that of a man taking stock of his surroundings, suddenly became intent and piercing, as, passing in survey over the lowly spectators to the glittering company, it centered itself on the young mistress of festivities.

In costume white and shining, the Lady Elise moved through the graceful numbers, her slender supple figure now poised, now swaying, from head to foot responsive to the rhythm of that "pastime of little steps." Her lips, too, were busy, but such was the witchery of her motion—all fire and life—the silk-stockinged cavaliers whom she thus regaled with wit, mockery, or jest, could, for the most part, respond only with admiring glances or weakly protesting words.

"That pretty fellow, her partner," with a contemptuous accent on the adjective, "is the Marquis de Beauvilliers, a kinsman of the king!" said one of the women in the throng. "Ma foi! They're well matched. A dancing doll for a popinjay!"

The young man behind the head-dresses, now nodding viciously, moved nearer the front. Dressed in the rough though not picturesque fashion of the northern fishermen, a touch of color in his apparel lent to his bearing a note of romance the bold expression of his swarthy face did not belie. For a few moments he watched the girl; the changing eyes and lips, shadowed by hair that shone and flashed like bright burnished gold; then catching her gaze, the black eyes gleamed. An instant their eyes lingered; hers startled, puzzled.

"Where have I seen him?" My lady, in turning, paused to swing over her shoulders a glance.

"Whom?" asked her companion in the dance—a fair, handsome nobleman of slim figure and elegant bearing.

"That's just what I can't tell you," she answered, sweeping a courtesy that fitted the rhythm of the music.

"Only a face I should remember!"

gossiers, stamped with the ancient insignia of the Mount, and once the property of the illustrious monks, early rulers of the place. Other attendants followed, bearing lighted torches, confections and marvelous frosted towers and structures from the castle kitchen.

"The patron saint in sugar!" Merry exclamations greeted these examples of skill and cunning. "Are we to devour the saint?"

"Ah, no; he is only to look at!"

"But the Mount in cake?"

"You may cut into that—though beware!—not so deep as the dungeons!"

"A piece of the cloister!"

"A bit of the abbey!"

"And you, Elise?"

The girl reached gaily. "A little of the froth of the sea!"

Meanwhile, not far distant, a barrel

"Then I Would Remember Him," She Laughed.

had been broached and wine was being circulated among the people. There, master of ceremonies, Beppo dispensed advice with the beverage, his grumbling talk heard above the light laughter and chatter of the lords and ladies.

"Drink to his Excellency!" As he spoke, the governor's man, from the elevated stand upon which he stood, gazed arrogantly around him. "Clods! Spongers that sop without a word of thanks! Who only think of your stomachs! Drink to the governor, I say!"

"To the governor!" exclaimed a few, but it might have been noticed they were men from the town, directly beneath the shadow of his Excellency's castle, and now close within reach of the fat factotum's arm.

"Once more! Had I the ordering of wine, the barrels would all be empty ones, but her ladyship would be generous, and—"

Beppo broke suddenly off, his wandering glance, on a sudden, arrested. "Hein!" he exclaimed, with eyes protruding.

A moment he stammered a few words of surprise and incredulity, the while he continued to search eagerly—but now in vain. The object of his startled attention, illumined, for an instant, on the outskirts of the throng, by the glare of a torch, was no more to be described. As questioning the reality of a fleeting impression, his gaze fixed itself again near the edge of flickering lights; shifted uncertainly to the pavilion where servants from the Mount hurried to and fro; then back to the people around him. His jaw which had dropped grew suddenly firm.

"Clear a space for the dance!" he called out in tones impatient, excited. "It's her ladyship's command—so see you step blithely! And you fellows there, with the tambourin and hautbois, come forward!"

Two men, clad in sheepskin and carrying rude instruments, obediently advanced, and at once, in marked contrast to the recent tinkling measures of the orchestra, a wild, half-barbaric concord rang out.

But the governor's man, having thus far executed the orders he had received, did not linger to see whether or not his own injunction, "to step blithely," was observed; some concern, remote from galliards, gavottes or bourrees of the people, caused him hastily to dismount from his stand and make his way from the throng. As he started at a rapid pace across the sands, his eyes, now shining with anticipation, looked back.

"What could have brought him here? Him!" he repeated. "Ah, my fine fellow, this should prove a lucky stroke for me!" And quickening his step, until he almost ran, Beppo hurried toward the lower gate of the Mount.

CHAPTER V.

An interruption. "They seem not to appreciate your fete champetre, my Lady!" At the verge of the group of peasant dancers, the Lady Elise and the Marquis de Beauvilliers, who had left the other guests to the enjoyment of fresh culinary surprises, paused to survey a scene, intended, yet failing, to be festive. For whether these people were too sodden to avail themselves of the opportunity for merry-making, or liked not the notion of tripping together at Beppo's command, their movements, which should have been free and untrammelled as the vigorous swing of the music, were characterized only by painful monotony and lagging. In the half-gloom they came together like shadows; separated aimlessly and cast misshapen silhouettes on the broad surface of the sands beyond. These bobbing, black spots my lady disapprovingly regarded.

"They seem not in the mood, truly!" tapping her foot on the beach.

"Here—and elsewhere!" he laughed. "But the governor's daughter made an impatient movement; memories of the dance, as she had often seen it, when she was a child at the Mount, recalled to her. 'They seem to have forgotten!' Her eyes flashed. 'I should like to show them.'"

"You? My Lady?"

She did not answer; pressing her red lips, she glanced sharply around. "Stupid people! Half of them are only looking on! When they can dance, they won't, and—"

She gave a slight start, for near her, almost at her elbow, stood the young seaman she had observed only a short time before, when the minuet was in progress. His dark eyes were bent on her and she surprised on his face an expression half derisive, half quizzical. Her look changed to one of displeasure.

"You are not dancing?" severely.

"No, my Lady. Too late, perhaps, he regretted his temerity—that too unveiled and open regard.

"Why not?" more imperiously.

"I," he began and stopped.

"You can dance?"

"A little, perhaps—"

"As well as they?" looking at the people.

"Warden fantoccini!" said the man, a flicker of amusement returning to his face.

"Fantoccini?" spoke the girl impatiently. "What do you know of them?"

"We Breton seamen sail far, on occasion."

"Far enough to gain in assurance!" cried my lady, with golden head high, surveying him disdainfully through half-closed, sweeping lashes. "But you shall prove your right."

"Right?" asked the fellow, his eyes fixed intently upon her.

"The right of one who does not dance—to criticize those who do!" she said pointedly, and made, on the sudden, an imperious gesture.

He gave a start of surprise; audacious though he was, he looked as if he would draw back. "What? With you, my Lady?"

A gleam of satisfaction, a little cold and scornful, shone from the girl's eyes at this evidence of his discomfiture. "Unless," she added maliciously, "you fear, you—can not?"

"Fear?" His look shot around; a moment he seemed to hesitate; then a more reckless expression swept suddenly over his dark features and he sprang to her side.

"At your Ladyship's command!"

My lady's white chin lifted. The presumptuous fellow knew the dance of the Mount—danced it well, no doubt!—else why such ease and assurance? Her lids veiled a look of disappointment; she was half-minded curiously to dismiss him, when a few words of low remonstrance and the sight of my lord's face decided her. She drew aside her skirts swiftly, flashed back at the nobleman a smile, capricious and wilful.

"They," indicating the peasants, "must have an example, my Lord!" she exclaimed, and stood, with eyes sparkling, waiting the instant to catch up the rhythm.

But the marquis, not finding the reason sufficient to warrant such condescension, gazed with mute protest and disapproval on the two figures, so ill-assorted: my lady, in robe of satin, fastened with tassels of silver—the sleeves, wide and short, trimmed at the elbow with the lace of Brussels and drawn up at the shoulder with glistening knots of diamonds; the other, clad in the rough raiment of a seaman! The nice, critical sense of the marquis suffered from this spectacle of the incongruous; his eyes, seeking in vain those of the governor's daughter, turned and rested querulously on the heavy-browed peasants, most of whom, drawing nearer, viewed the scene with stolid indifference. In the gaze of only a few did that first stupid impression suffer any change; then it varied to one of vague wonder, half-apathetic inquiry!

"Is he mad?" whispered a croud of this class to a neighbor.

"Not so loud!" breathed the other in a low tone.

"But he," regarding with dull awe the young fisherman, "doesn't care! Look! What foolhardiness! He's going to dance with her!"

"Witchcraft! That's what I call it!"

"Hush!" My lady extended the tips of her fingers. "Attack well!" runs the old Gallic injunction to dancers; the partner she had chosen apparently understood its significance. A lithe muscular hand closed on the small one; whirled my lady swiftly; half back again. It took away her breath a little, so forcible and unceremonious that beginning! Then, obeying the mad rhythm of the movement, she yielded to the infectious measure. An arm quickly encircled her waist; swept the slender form here—there. Never had she had partner so vigorous, yet graceful. One who understood so well this song of the soil; its wild symbolism; the ancient music of the hardy Scandinavians, who first brought the dance to these shores.

More stirring, the melodies resounded—faster—faster. In a rapid turn, the golden hair just brushed the dark, glowing face. He bent lower; as if she had been but a peasant maid, the bold eyes looked now down into hers; nay, more—in their depths she might fancy almost a warmer sparkle—of mute admiration! And her face, on a sudden, grew cold.

"Certes, your Ladyship sets them an example!" murmured the audacious fellow. "Though, pardon!—one not easy to imitate!"

She threw back her head, proudly, imperiously; the brown eyes gleamed, and certain sharp words of reproach were about to spring from her lips, when abruptly, above the sound of the music, a trumpet call, afar, rang out. My lady—not sorry perhaps of the pretext—at once stammered—

DO YOU ENJOY EATING

Or Does Everything You Eat Distress You.

Experts declare that the reason stomach disorders are so common in this country is due to hasty and careless habits of eating. Stomach troubles and run-down conditions also usually go together.

John Lind, of Oneonta, N. Y., says: "I had a bad stomach trouble for fifteen years and became so weak that I could hardly walk or do any work. My appetite was very poor, and it seemed impossible to get any relief. Since taking two bottles of Vinol I find that it has already made a remarkable improvement in my health, my digestion is much stronger, and I have gained in weight."

Vinol makes weak stomachs strong because it strengthens and tones up the weakened, tired and overtaxed nerves of the digestive organs. Vinol is easily assimilated by the weakest stomachs, and is delicious to the taste.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Oct. 21, 1872.—On Thursday of the present week the new Masonic hall in the Smith Block will be formally and publicly dedicated to the uses for which it was designated. Extensive preparations for this affair are in progress which give promise to an evening of unusual interest. At the close of the dedication exercises a banquet will be served at the Myers House for which tickets will be sold. The barn and tobacco shed belonging to William Spaulding residing in the town of Harmony on Milton avenue about three miles from this city were both destroyed by fire with their contents Saturday evening, the fire being first discovered about ten thirty. Thirty tons of hay, sixty-five bushels of buckwheat, thirty bushels of timothy seed, twenty sheaves and the yield of six acres of tobacco were all destroyed. Thomas Hamilton works the farm on shares and his entire crop for the year with the exception of a little corn in the field was destroyed. This calamity leaves Mr. Hamilton in very bad circumstances, which is a severe affliction as he has a large family dependent upon his efforts for support. It is gratifying though to learn that his neighbors propose to give him pecuniary aid. The total loss by fire is $2,500 on which Mr. Spaulding had $1,100 insurance. The fire was the work of an incendiary. It is only a short time since some miscreant fired the grain shocks of Captain Car-gill, living near Mr. Spaulding, and the people of that neighborhood began to feel that it is time to bring the offenders to justice by having them arrested. George Pickering died last night at 6:30 from the effect of a razor cut

"No, mum. You must pardon my not drinkin' water. I've an iron constitution and I'm afraid it would rust it."

in his throat inflicted by his own hands. Mr. Pickering lived seven days with his wind pipe almost severed.

Rev. E. D. Huntley preached his first sermon at the Court street M. E. church yesterday to a large congregation both morning and evening. He has a peculiar off handed way of addressing his brethren, but there is weight in his words and logic in the argumentative discourses. The conference has not slighted our Court St. M. E. church.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.

The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end.

There are many of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement, offering golden opportunities, and these unscrupulous people find fertile ground for work among the masses.

Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertiser is limited. All newspapers have this experience.

But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper and find its way into the columns.

The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.
